“In the Community, FOR THE COMMUNITY”

The National Association of Black Law Enforcement Officers is an organization dedicated to enhancing and empowering the African American and Latino communities we work in. With nearly 30 separate member organizations and more than 15,000 individual members, we provide community strength, ensure community justice, and provide a strong presence in times of community crisis.

We are dedicated to erasing police misconduct and abuse where ever it takes place, as it is both an embarrassment to our profession and a scourge to our neighborhoods of near epidemic proportions.

We are dedicated to the empowerment of our communities both politically and economically, as well as educationally and intellectually. A strong community is a wise one, and we believe our community to be deserving of positive-thinking, and understanding protectors.

We stand constantly as GUARDIANS OF OUR COMMUNITY.

Each year, member organizations of the National Association of Black Law Enforcement Officers conduct programs designed to strengthen the bonds between law enforcement and the minority community.

The Officer Friendly Drug-Free Basket Ball Camp. Based in Bridgeport, CT, this program is now in it's 11th year of operation, providing physical fitness and wellness, community involvement, and self-pride to more than 100 young people.

The Children of Courage Youth Symposiums. Bringing inner-city youth from across the state together with law enforcement officers from their various communities, it provides an opportunity to create relationships, enhance self-motivation, and increase community-worth and pride.

Law Enforcement, Education & Technology Youth Computer Programs. Enhancing computer literacy among the youth of our communities, this program provides directed exposure to the technology that is required to succeed academically and financially, bringing together community resources from police, colleges and universities, and the business community.

What to Do When Stopped By the Police?

One of our most important presentations to the community, “What to Do When Stopped By the Police”, is a highly inter-active presentation of how NOT to become a victim of law enforcement abuses and misconduct.. The spectre of Racial Profiling is a critical, and ongoing, issue in forging positive bonds between police and the minority community. It is only through the education of the community AND it's protectors that this scourge may be eradicated.

This program is provided at every conference session attended by members of the National Association of Black Law Enforcement Officers , regardless of venue, and has garnered both the praise and support of organizations such as the NAACP, the Urban League, the ACLU, and many others.
